BISLANDAM A PERCONIC

Mother, then, unto your daughter,

Speak of something higher far.
Than to be mere fashion's lady—
"Woman is the brighter star."
If ye, in your strong affection,
Urge your son to be a true man.
Urge your daughter no less strongly
To arise and be a woman. Yes, a woman-brightest model Of that light and perfect beauty.

Where the mind, and soul, and body, Blend to work out life's great duty— Be a woman—naught is higher On the gilded list of fame;

Miscellaneous.

A Begular Squirt.

Years ago, when I was a youngster, I became an assistant of Dr. B., the super-intendent of a public lunatic asylum, in what town it does not matter-the location don't affect the narration in the least. As in all insane asylums, some of our nationts were docile and tractable and had the freedom of the house and high walled garden, while others, being violent and dangerous in their madness, were confined to their rooms

Sometimes one of these latter gentry would get loose, a fact he immediately announced by breaking things generally -upon which announcement the Doctor would repair to the spot at which he was "elevating the ancient Henry," and advancing upon him with a steadfast gaze, would fascinate him as a black snake does a cat-bird, and march him off to his room instanter. The doctor's eye was never known to fail, and he imparted such a portion of his literally charming quali ties to my fellow-assistant and myself, that we were able to master an ordinary maniac, although the doctor himself had to attend to the "tough customers."

We had one lunatic by the name of once got loose and swallowed so many cents that he rattled them when he walked, yet he showed no injurious effect from

He had broken out of his room two or three times, but had always gone back PAPER WAREHOUSE. very quietly when any of us made our

The asylum had a saloon in the center with a door at each end; and one of these doors requiring fixing once upon a LETTER, PRINTING & WRAPPING time, a carpenter was engaged upon it, when in trundled Mr. Smith, and possessed himself of a long, sharp chisel When the carpenter looked around, the madman gave a grin and a poke of the chisel at him; whereupon the terrified man of chips scuttled out and locked the door-then, while the enemy was battering away at it, he rushed around and locked the door at the other end.

Having thus caged the ostrich, he gave the alarm; I, supposing it was an ordinary case which I could easily control, unlocked the door and entered boldly, whereupon he made a rush for me, and I Incontinently bolted.

The Dector was sent for. He came, and after reconnoitering through the keyhole, and ascertaining the enemy was at the other end of the room has a sent for the sent for the sent for sent f the other end of the room, he opened the door, and saw at once that his eye would fail him in this emergency.

was certainly a problem. Given: A crazy individual, as strong as a buil, perfectly uncontrollable, and armed with a weapon. Required : How to eatch him.

"Alfred," said he, "go down into the surgery, fill the largest syringe with harts-

Then the Doctor, Jones and myself formed an army of invasion. We threw open the door and entered in the following battle array.

I, being the shortest of the three, marched first, holding a chair in front of me by the back, so that the legs might keep off a rush if our pop-gun flashed in pan. Then came Jones, with the syringe resting on my shoulder like a piece of flying artillery. Finally, in the rear, in the safest place, vanced towards him. It seemed to me that we were several miles apart, from the length of time it took to approach him. The nearer we got the more wicked that chisel looked, and the handle seemed to increase until it was as long as a broom stick. When we got within a few feet of him he jumped up and sprang

My recollections of matters and things for about thirty seconds are somewhat indistinct. I have a vague idea that a blow from the but-end of the chisel knocked Jones into a neighboring conservatory of plants-while a well directed left-hander sent me flying into a tool-chest. The lunatic then grabbed the squirt-gun-placed the "nozzle" within about one-eight of an inch of the Doctor's eye-fizz! whiz! splatter! splash! it would have felled an ox and drowned him afterwards -I draw a curtain over the terrible catastrophe! The Dector collapsed! "Lust scene of all this strange eventful history" was a dissolving view of the lunatic's MILLINERY AND DRESSMAKING! coat-tail, as he flew through the window, We never saw him again. He carried with him the survivor's best wishes-and the squirt-gun. But the Doctor attended no more patients for ninety days,

Read what the Editor of the Neosho Valley register says of the great remedy: "Woodward & Finley's Ague Pills.—Not "Woodward & Finley's AGUE fills." Not long since, the proprietors of this medicine presented us with a bottle of the preparation, and within three days after, we were shaking with the ague! Whether this medicine was an agent in producing this state of toing, we know not; but if so, like the homeopathic principle—a producer of disease being likewise a remedy for the same—these Fills satisfactorily took the shakes out of the unenviable old 'Shake' that shook us. We believe these Fills are an effective remedy for the disease they claim to cure, and we recommend them to the public." hundreds, of what can be done by this great

Lawrence, April 8, 1850, this disease stands
DR SHALLENBERGER'S ANTIDOTE. A few doses will cure any ordinary case, and ONE DOSE invariably stops the chills. It contains nothing in the least degree hurtful to THE SYSTEM UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES, and never produces the unpleasant effects that attend the use of quinino and other agents in general use. It cures every form of the disease, and is the original and

August 28, 38. Read the following testimony : GEO. W. GOODRICH, ESQ. Attorner and General Land Agent, now of Granby, Newton county, Mo., but at that time a resident of Neosho Valler, K. T., writes as follows:

"I am more than even of the opinion that no other one medicine meaning and metals are the county."

"Iam more than ever of the opinion that no other one nadicine accompletely meets the wants of our people as your pills. Last fall, in this region, but one person in my knowledge escaped the Agne. Many had it all through the winter, and continued to have it this spring. I sold eight bottles, all for the treatment of these almost chronic cases, and, it has given in every case the most perfect satisfaction; and I believe the first dose has in every instance atopped the disease,—Of these eight cases, permit me to give you the facts with regard to two of them: The first was that of a gird of fifteen years, who had the Agne badly all that fall—land remittent force and dumb ague nearly all winter; and to this was superaded monthly irregularity. Knowing this, I hardly ventured to recommend the pills as I would in ordinary cases, but to my great astonishment and gratification, the first dose stopped the fever, (remittent) and I supposed the other difficulty has also been removed, as the roses on her before faded cheeks seem to indicate fine health, which otherwise would hardly be the case.

The other ease is that of a young max living in TOBACCO AND CIGAR health, which otherwise would nardly be the case.

The othercase is that of a young man living in the same family. He had the Fever and Ague badly, all last fall and winter—so he informs me; the first describe like pills stopped it, and he har not best an hour from his work since he began to take it. He has been splitting rails, hauling themeut, and building fence ever since and makes a first-rate hand at this taborious business. He now may that ten dollars would be a small price for the benefit he has rocalved.

April 20th, 1820. GEO. W. GOODRICH.

Westrost, Mo., Jan. 20th, 1857.

We consider the prospect for the sale of your medicine here very flattering, and we shall, doubtless, be able to dispose of much larger quantity the coming season. We have not heard of a single case of failure: Infact, it has nearly thrown out of market every other preparation for the cure of Fever and Ague.
